The Washington Post

Prices may vary in areas outside metropolitan Washington.

RE V1 V2 V3 V4

Cloudy, breezy 50/39 • Tomorrow: Partly sunny 52/41

Democracy Dies in Darkness

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 2026 · $4

Nvidia CEO quits amid reports of two affairs

A striking fall from grace for one of the world's most powerful tech executives

BY MIRIAM WALDVOGEL, NANCY COOK AND IAN DUNCAN

Nvidia CEO Jensen Huang resigned Thursday amid reports of two affairs that included a woman suspected of being a Chinese spy, a stunning downfall for one of the world's most powerful executives.

"Jensen's contributions to NVIDIA are profound. NVIDIA is one of the most consequential technology companies in the world," the company's board said in a statement. "The Board and the company thank Jensen for his immeasurable contributions to the company and the industry."

Colette Kress, the chief financial officer of Nvidia who has been with the company since 2013, will serve as interim CEO while the board looks to replace a leader whose name has been synonymous with the company.

Huang transformed Nvidia from a developer of graphics cards used in video game computers to one that controls the precious chips used to develop artificial intelligence.

Nvidia is one of the heavyweights in a stock market heavily reliant on AI. The company's stock price sunk 4.3 percent in

SEE NVIDIA ON A6

Fallout: Nvidia stood behind CEO. That could have consequences. A6

VALERIE PLESCH/FOR THE WASHINGTON POST

Law enforcement on the scene Thursday on 15th Street near Vida Fitness in Washington. The ordinary weekday morning bustle of a popular Washington neighborhood was thrown into chaos when a man shot and killed a condo building manager inside the gym.

5 shot at D.C.'s Logan Circle

ONE PERSON KILLED; GUNMAN ALSO DEAD

He had barricaded in unit, fired from his balcony

This article is by Joe Heim, Angie Orellana Hernandez, Liam Scott, Meagan Flynn, Sammy Westfall and Sophia Solano

Anthony Mirones was on a treadmill when he heard a loud bang that he assumed was a popped exercise ball.

Logan Circle was starting to stir. Parents herded their children to school along 15th Street NW. Pet owners walked their dogs. Construction workers toiled at a condo building site.

At Vida Fitness in the Metropole building near the intersection of 15th and P streets, Mirones and dozens of others were starting their day with a workout.

Sahil Kapoor, 26, was walking down the stairs into the gym shortly before 8 a.m. when he heard gunshots. He didn't see the shooter. He did see the aftermath.

"I saw the guy fall over, and there was blood pouring everywhere," Kapoor said.

Mirones walked toward the noise and saw a middle-aged man on the floor, he said.

"So then I'm connecting dots,

SEE SHOOTING ON A2

Killer was ER doctor with a grudge over facilities

BY DANIELLE PAQUETTE, DOUGLAS MACMILLAN, PAUL SCHWARTZMAN AND AARON SCHAFFER

He lived on seventh floor above gym where police say the rampage began

The gunman who killed one person and wounded four others in Northwest Washington on Thursday attributed the attack to his long-running frustrations with the management of the condominium complex where he lived, according to a building manager who spoke with him shortly after the shooting.

Charelle Ferguson, a building manager for the Metropole, said that Matt Lambert answered the phone around 9 a.m. when she called him — as she had been calling other residents after the shooting — to see whether he was okay. He said that he was tired of the mold and water damage in his unit, which, he'd told her previously, had rendered it unlivable.

"The only way people will pay attention, you have to do something," he said, Ferguson recalled in an interview with The Washington Post. He then confessed to her that he had shot five people.

Police identified Lambert, 55, as the gunman in Thursday's attack.

James Stuart, 46, a manager at the condo building, was killed inside a gym on a lower level of the building, police said.

Stuart was a member of the gym who worked out at the same time every morning, according to David von Storch, owner of the Vida Fitness gym. Security video showed Lambert shooting Stuart point blank in the back, von Storch said. "It's not random gun violence," he said. "It's some guy targeting his neighbor."

Lambert, a board certified emergency room doctor, lived in a seventh-floor penthouse unit above the gym where police have said the rampage began. He

SEE GUNMAN ON A2

U.S. did little to aid spy investigation, officials say

Calls are growing for a deeper inquiry into Trump, Nvidia and China

BY JOSHUA YANG AND GERRIT DE VYNCK

The United States rebuffed requests from Singaporean authorities to assist with its investigation into Alice Huang, the alleged Chinese espionage asset whose affair with Nvidia CEO Jensen Huang has raised national security concerns and led to the Nvidia chief's ouster, the Singapore government said Thursday.

The news, coming just hours after Jensen Huang stepped down, provides fresh fuel for congressional demands for an investigation into his activities and his relationship with the White House.

U.S. and Singaporean authorities were monitoring Megaspeed International, Alice Huang's firm, as early as June 2025 on suspicions that the Singapore-based tech company was illegally rerouting high-end Nvidia chips to China in violation of American export controls. The chips are critical to developing artificial intelligence models.

Singapore impounded Alice Huang's passport in June 2025 as

SEE ALLEGED SPY ON A6

Support for ex-CEO: But research suggests many posts were fake. A7

YULIA MOROZOVA/REUTERS

Pushing for peace in Ukraine

From left, U.S. envoys Steve Witkoff and Jared Kushner, with Russian envoy Kirill Dmitriev, in Moscow on Thursday. European negotiators will join the next round of talks, the U.S. officials said. Story, A12

Trump says no Iran deal is needed, closes down talks

Vance should instead focus on domestic corruption, he advises

BY MICHAEL BIRNBAUM AND RACHEL CHASON

President Donald Trump suggested Thursday that he was dialing back diplomatic efforts to resolve the conflict with Iran and ending a dealmaking effort by Vice President JD Vance in favor of leaving a naval blockade in place and continuing to pressure the Iranian economy.

Vance in recent days had started outreach to hard-liners in Tehran to explore the possibility of a negotiated end to the conflict that would reopen the Strait of Hormuz and impose limits on Iran's nuclear program after more than eight months of war.

The war — and the jump in gas and food prices that has come with it — is deeply unpopular among U.S. voters, who delivered a historic defeat to Republicans in the midterm elections last week. The day after the election, Vance made an unusual public break with the president, writing that the war had been one of the causes of the election loss.

Vance's outreach effort to Iran was one of the ways in which he was trying to resolve the war — and potentially rescue his chances of a successful 2028 presidential run.

"We don't need a deal with Iran. Those days have long since passed. We've got their money, Hundreds of Billions of Dollars, and we've got their Strait!" Trump posted on Truth Social on Thursday.

He said he was asking Vance to focus his attention elsewhere.

"I have asked Vice President Vance to focus his complete and total attention on the Massive Corruption and Crime taking place in Democrat run Cities and States throughout the U.S.," Trump wrote.

The latest missive from Trump added to confusion among U.S.

SEE IRAN ON A12

RICHARD A. POSNER, 1939-2026

Iconoclastic federal judge wielded wide influence in legal, economic circles

BY PAUL W. VALENTINE

Richard A. Posner, an iconoclastic federal appellate judge and prolific author who was widely known for his provocative intellect and was ranked by many in the legal world as second in influence only to members of the U.S. Supreme Court, died Wednesday. He was 87.

The University of Chicago Law School did not provide a cause of death or say where he died.

Mr. Posner's restless mind was on grand display both in the courtroom, where he at times flustered lawyers with his hectoring manner, and in his staggering output of published writings on topics ranging from esoteric antitrust law to sex and aging.

He embodied an "erratic genius, herculean work ethic and irrepressible ambition," Yale Law School professor John Fabian Witt once wrote in the New York Times. "In the past half-century there has been no figure more dominant or more controversial in American law."

During his nearly 36 years on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit in Chicago, from 1981 to 2017, Mr. Posner wrote more than 3,300 judicial opinions. He wrote or co-wrote more than 40 books, some with updated editions, bringing total publications to more than 65 volumes during his life.

Mr. Posner, the New Yorker magazine once reported, was, "by a wide margin, the jurist most often cited in scholarly articles — cited almost as much as the next two, Ronald Dworkin and Oliver Wendell Holmes, add-

SEE POSNER ON A7

IN THE NEWS

Tomb of the Unknowns Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth awarded a commendation medal to the soldier who admonished him and his entourage for their disruptive behavior. A4

Commanders visit Giants For coverage of Washington's game at New York on Thursday night, go to postsports.com.

THE NATION

Flying in a pricey military jet, Marco Rubio rarely misses a Florida football game. A3

Eight people including two children were killed when a building collapsed in Brooklyn. A4

THE WORLD

As deadly storms flood Gaza's tent cities, the displaced in the enclave fear a worse winter. A9

As Venezuelans protest blackouts, the U.S.-backed leader declares an early Christmas. A14

THE ECONOMY

The housing market slumped further in October as home sales fell to the lowest level in more than 16 years, with mortgate rates above 7 percent. A18

If you've been scammed on a dating app, reporting it could soon get easier. A18

STYLE

Chris Harrison has a show we must discuss, Monica Hesse writes. "The Vow" is a dating show for tradwives. B1

SPORTS

Wake Forest is in the chase for the final ACC championship game and a berth in the College Football Playoff. B7

THE REGION

A raft of private firms made pitches for a new D.C. jail, but debt limits mean it could take decades to pay off. B13

WEEKEND

For a taste of Latin nightlife in D.C., only a short stroll is needed to hit up a trio of top-notch bars.

BUSINESS NEWS.....A18
COMICS.....B4
OBITUARIES.....B17
OPINION PAGES.....A15
TELEVISION.....B6
WORLD NEWS.....A9

CONTENT © 2026
The Washington Post
Year 149, No. 54764

0 70628 21100 3